IN THE COURT OF THE MUNSIFF AND FIRST CLASS MAGISTRATE AT DODBALLAPUR.

Order Under Section 144, Criminal Procedure Code.

Whereas the outbreak of violence that has created communal tension in Bangalore between Hindus and Muslims from 12th December 1947 having widely spread in this locality has aroused sensation and anxiety in the minds of both Hindus and Muslims of this town:

Whereas I am fully satisfied of the same that unless preventive precautionary measures are taken for checking the acute sensation in the minds of the public there is a likelihood of breach of public peace, safety and tranquility.

And whereas in this connection it is brought to my notice that some persons of this town were moving about with clubs at odd hours on 13th December 1947 in this Town.

I do hereby order prohibiting the assemblage of five or more persons in a public place for no reasonable cause, and any person from moving about in public streets armed with any weapon like club, sword, dagger or any other instrument which can be used as a weapon of offence within the limits of Dodballapur Town for a period of two months from this 14th day of December 1947.

This is an ex-parte order passed as a matter of emergency.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY, MYSORE GOVERNMENT LIFE INSURANCE DEPARTMENT.

PUBLIC BRANCH.

Circular No. 202.

To

The Agents of the Public Branch.

Subject matter: Debt or Lien System of Loading for decreasing risks like underweight, etc.

In the acceptance of proposals on lives in the Public Branch several kinds of extra risks which are decreasing are commonly met with and with a view to load these risks in an equitable manner, the following procedure has been proposed to be adopted with effect from 1st January 1948.

The most common type of extra risk met with is underweight in the proposer. Underweight is a decreasing risk and the risk which is adverse to start with may become favourable to the office by the time the proposer reaches the age of 35 or 40. Thus the method of charging a uniform extra by loading a life by one or two years would not be correct as the risk is decreasing. In these cases it has been proposed to impose a lien on the sum assured and this lien goes on decreasing year by year until it becomes zero after a certain number of years. This method of loading will be appreciated by proposers who protest they are in sound health and are averse to payment of extra premiums. They may be told that if they are correct and they survive the period of the lien they will be covered for the full sum assured and they will lose nothing. If, however, a claim occurs within that period the office would have been proved correct in their judgment.

If, for instance, a policy is issued for a sum assured of Rs. 1,000 with lien or decreasing debt of Rs. 200 decreasing to zero in five years, no extra premium is charged, but if death occurs in the first year of assurance, the sum assured is reduced by Rs. 200; if death comes in during the second year the sum assured is reduced by Rs. 160 and so on until the fifth year when the assurance is reduced only by Rs. 40 and if death occurs after five years, full assurance is paid. The amount of debt and the period during which it will be levied on a decreasing scale will have to be decided on the merits of the individual cases.

The agents should note that this procedure can be adopted in only certain types of cases and that in all such cases this will be adopted. No agent should represent that this may be accepted as an alternative to any extra premium that may be imposed.

The above method of charging extra will take effect from 1st January 1948. The Agents are invited to come to the office and get doubts, if any on the above, cleared.
